SuperFlyingEngiNodbuggerCheney answered the question by actually saying what will fix it, not making up some plan that will will never be explained.

I don't think you know what you're talking about at all. You said this about the first debate, and it made no sense. You said it about this debate, and it doesn't make much sense, either. How did Cheney explain his plans while Edwards did not?

Cheney- We have a plan that goes a little something like this, (rest explains the plan)

Edwards- We have a plan (Never mind most of their plans have been pre-rejected), Bush lied.
