ScytharHalo38ScytharThere is always an end, its just a matter of time. Sometimes its not good to look too far ahead, live a moment by moment instead...its much more less painful that way. And then again, we're here just to hunt experiences, nothing more.

Heh, thanks. My "lone wolf"- styled life gives me time to think stuff....lol you'd be amazed how much time I spend thinking the origins of existence and the meaning of life....

Me too.... I find my self drifting into that frame of mind now and then. Then i realise in the end it doesn't realy matter, and I stick on some computer game or movie where in the end it all does make sense and does matter! (I love Final Fantasy: The Spirits Within )
