KIRBY098Hello Campers,

Well since EA has once again ignored the majority's request to provide Tiberian twilight and is going with a RED ALERT based game. :rolleyes: I have decided it's time for me to write a post firestorm story.

I present to you: "The Fury of the Messiah"

The story is set in the future after Cabal's defeat. It will try to answer many of the questions every C&C fan has about the end of FIRESTORM.

The setting: It will be written from the viewpoint of a GDI officer stationed at a listening post / firebase in what is left of Cabal's Mainframe Core base in France as the Tiberian scourge progresses. By this time, most of humanity not contaminated has been moved to the Northern regions where Tiberian growth has been slowed by the cold.

The Equatorial regions are overrun by Tiberium based growth, and only the Forgotten, and scattered military bases exist there.

Hope you enjoy, and feel free to comment at the Project ex Forums as the story progresses, and to check out "The Scorpion's Tale" my prior effort at unravelling Nod.

Fury of the Messiah is available at <http://fury.exnyte.com> - No registration is required to read/follow the story.
