

---

Subject: CW revival

Posted by cheesesoda on Fri, 10 Dec 2004 01:53:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I'll admit, I've been completely irrational while posting, but I do have a rational explanation. I'm not using it as an excuse, and if you insist that it is, I'll regard you as I've regarded BiGPooLoG.

I've been extremely stressed out and tired lately. I'm not saying all my actions should be excused because of that, but you can now realize why I have been acting the way I am.

I do, however, find it funny that you completely ignored my comment about me respecting you. Why is that? Is there a reason for me to NOT respect you?

-----

I never said I was well respected, but I sure as hell am more respected than he is on these forums. Whether or not I'm more respected than you and others is not the point.

Who the fuck are you to tell me what my posts are intended to mean? I'm pretty sure that I am the only one who really knows what my intentions are. Just as only you know what your intentions are in a post.

We all know you've been here for a long time. I'm not just looking at the member number or amount of posts you have. Notice how I said "amount of time". Nowhere in my statement did I address member number or number of posts. Stop trying to say what I mean, because you obviously don't know.

Why the fuck do you keep addressing the idea that my post count actually means something? I never said post count does...post counts only tell whether or not you spam. As you can see my post count, I've done my fair share of spamming.

You don't know me. I may not be the smartest person, and I certainly don't give a fuck enough to pretend that I do, but I certainly am not stupid. My GPA is horrible, but that has nothing to do with my intelligence level. Anyone will tell you that.

Now you're God, eh? Whatever you say goes? So just because you THINK you KNOW that I'm irrational then it automatically is? Yeah, who's thinking he's the better person now? :rolleyes:

You don't address any of my valid points. While you don't seem to think I have many, you must agree that I have more than you've attempted to debunk.

Again, why is it that you think you're God?

---