HomeySure the beta players have played the longest, and were by far better when the game came out. I probably havn't played enough with some of them but just because someone is a beta player doesn't make them elite. Also I'd consider anyone who got the game (beta or soon after release) and oldbie.

Same thing I said before...but like I said...my guess is that, They feel so proud because they haven't participated in many betas. I do remember all of the "oldbies" that have replied this message so far, but I haven't really seen a lot of really Skilled people...just people that started playing the game at the same time as me, but Quit playing it in less than 1/2 year. While the only person here that has been as active on this game at least for 2 years just like me is Homey. Again I'm not trying to insult anyone, but that's the way I remember that happened.
