You're an idiot. A genuine idiot.

Westwood never gave you anything. It was me that the maps were given to, not you. You have no rights to any of them, you do not own them, and the fact that your father is a lawyer does not mean you know what you're talking about.

You're not going to justify thievery. AllGusto couldn't do it. You can't do it. No one can, because being a thief isn't a justifiable occupation. You should teach your kids right from wrong, bl00g00f - after all, you're what they look up to and you're warping their little minds.

Before you continue to make an ass of yourself - go to C:\Westwood\Renegade\Data or wherever your Renegade folder is located. Find a file inside called C&C_Glacier_Flying.txt. It was included with the 1.035 patch.

ENORMOUS SPECIAL THANKS TO: Mike Amerson from Westwood Studios for helping me obtain this map and other models I've dearly needed, along with kindly helping me learn how to use 3DS Max. Thanks very much to Tse-Cheng Lo for designing Glacier Flying. Being able to finish his work was awe-inspiring! Another special thanks goes out to Chris Rubyor, also know as Delphi, for helping get these models to me and helping the mod community as a whole. We couldn't do it without you, Delphi!

Map Name: C&C_Glacier_Flying.mix version 1.2

Creator: Aircraftkiller

Email: aircraftkiller@cncrenegade.info

Theatre: The interior of a glacier in Alaska

Description: The third flying map that was to be included in the 1.030 patch for Renegade. You fly around in the interior of a glacier that GDI and Nod have taken for some reason and are battling it out for control of it, possibly for the high concentration of tiberium growth.

Looks like your father's going to have a hard time arguing against the will of Westwood
