Subject: Speed Up Firefox

AircraftkillerFireFuck sucks. Often times it has large problems displaying many forums and websites properly, even if it follows the new CSS version. I have only run into about four websites that did not display correctly in Opera, and all of them were designed horribly, so it wouldn't matter to begin with.

I have never experienced any "large" problems displaying anything. I only had a minor bug from the Renegade Forums, which is actually fixed now, and a small displaying problem on the old RenAlert layout. Every other site I've ever visited appears to be percectly fine. This is coming from an AVERAGE FIREFOX USER.
