

---

Subject: Survival kits?

Posted by Aircraftkiller on Sat, 22 Jan 2005 08:33:46 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

CrimsonProbably to summon the Goddess of Light...

No, it's for spiritual matters. One can't seriously go about killing people and not need some kind of spiritual stability. It keeps a man from going insane. The gemstones are also very useful during meditation and spell casting, so they're going to be necessary for a survival kit... At least for people of my religious persuasion. I told you guys I'm a witch, gemstones are something important that I need in my spiritual path. They collect and store energy, and release it when called to do so.

Misfit, I doubt you could fire an Eagle. It would either knock your small self over, or dislocate your shoulder. Those .50 caliber bullets are fucking huge...

If I ever get around to it, I'll take a photograph of the 47 and the magazines, plus some rounds. I'm a bit skiddish about showing it, seeing as how many of you would love nothing more than to find some way to get the feds after me for owning an assault rifle... Although I'm probably going to end up trading it in for a Steyr AUG, or simply keep the 47 and find a good AUG that's been slightly used and end up buying it anyway.

---