
Subject: Survival kits?

Posted by Aircraftkiller on Wed, 26 Jan 2005 01:15:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Javaxcxbigejoe14Quote:He said you went there to liberate the people as one of your objectives. You liberated that nation by overthrowing the recognized and standing sovrein government. That is a Coup D'etats. They are illegal.
So you're in favor of someone who killed and raped his own people for pleasure?

Of course not. Legality and morality are two completely different issues. What is moral might not necessarily be legal. And vise versa.

Your legal argument is bullshit. We do not have to adhere to UN "laws," International law is mostly, if not totally, a simple choice of following or not. There are not often any consequences. The entire concept of the UN is flawed, the nations in it will not answers to themselves when they break one of these so-called "laws," the only laws that matter are the ones we have for our own nation... and we didn't break them.

Deal with it, and find a real argument.
