I think I felt better about him pretending to be a girl, than the new threats...

Jason, I understand that you have been disgruntled for whatever reason, but there is absolutely nothing these guys could have done to you to warrant your threats. Best thing for you to do is move on, throw your Renegade game away & find a better, more constructive way to channel your energy. If your threats & tyraids are a joke, then it's not funny. If you're serious about all this, then you have problems that need to be dealt with now. You are at a pivotal point in your life at 17 where the actions you take now will forever change your life course. The biggest "loser" in this thread is you & you can change that by re-directing yourself now. You have the ability. Be a better man.

I think the best thing to do for everyone else involved is to simply ignore his threats, ban his IPs & enjoy the game w/o him.
