

---

Subject: Deathgod

Posted by icedog90 on Mon, 31 Jan 2005 22:05:34 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

HulkcoreHulkcoreicedog90

I don't get what's wrong with America, so many people here use English incorrectly, while other languages in other countries have far less of the amount of mistakes we have.

That's a nice run on sentence. Though, I suppose you already knew that.

A run on sentence is a sentence which has two complete sentences without proper punctuation. He should have said...

I don't get what's wrong with America. So many people here use English incorrectly while other languages in other countries have far less mistakes than we do.

Unless you're considering everything after America to be one long appositive. Which I guess could work, but it's still a poor sentence. This is all in addition to the whole "while other languages in other countries have far less of the amount of mistakes we have" mess.

My only real problem with English is that I use the comma in incorrect areas. It's a bad habit that used to be worse... I'm working on it.

I'm not even talking about grammar anyways. Using "it's" incorrectly can cause a sentence to be harder to read, where commas don't hamper it as badly.

Also keep in mind that everything else doesn't really bother me. It's "it's" that I keep arguing about.

---