Guess who's new national past time is 'Voting'...

That's right, Iraq's.

Look how happy they are. I think this is panning out to be some pretty well instilled democracy. Hell their turn out was higher than ours.

I'll blame you for causing this by using the word "hell" in your original post. Can't these people take their religion bickering to another thread suited to it? If it's discussion they want perhaps they'd find more on their topic of choice if it had its own place. I came into this thread to talk about Iraqi voting, as the title and first post suggest.
