Jesus Christ that guy is a moron, he compares the US to the third reich yet states that there is no other moment in history of which to describe the actions taking place in the US. And albeit I did at first think much lower of him then when I read the article, I still think he is a propaganda machine, looking not just to strengthen his political point of view, but also his own name. By spewing this controversy he stabalizes himself as a "Political Slim Shady", making his fame by nothing but saying whatever he thinks will offend the Right the most. There are much better ways he could have compared them then to go to the extreme of what he knew would cause a stir up and dub them "Nazis". He is either extremely bright, or stupid as this little tyraid of his may cost him his living. Although personally I would love nothing more than to see this tool fry, he is untouchable because EVERYONE is entitled to free speech, and I myself believe in that law to its exact words, so no charges should be filed. Sorry, I havent been following this topic a whole lot before reading that article, so I dont know if they are attempting to file charges.
