ok.

You've had your whine now tell us what YOU have done to improve Ren recently.

You may not like them personally, you may not like the work they do for Ren, but i defy you to fault the level of effort and commitment.

Even making a map is tough let alone building an anti-cheat program and improving it.

Id say they were due plenty of credit, along with a lot of other people who have put time in doing something Westwood studios should have done in the first place.

as far as the "Godfathers of Ren" thing goes, you deserve everything you get if you take things like that to heart.
