

---

Subject: For the second time in my life, my beliefs go up in smoke.

Posted by DaveGMM on Fri, 25 Feb 2005 00:11:32 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

<http://news.bbc.co.uk/1/hi/uk/4296373.stm>

People wonder why I have little faith in religion. I used to be a pretty damned devout Christian, and then suddenly I woke up, smelled the Communion wine and decided the grapes it was made of were a little on the sour side.

I must admit, hats off to the person who came up with this:

Quote:Out of those polar opposites, even Solomon himself would find it hard to forge a united church.

Pretty much describes the whole situation. It seems that the 21st century will be remembered as the century that the Christian church splits.. er.. again.

I had faith in people again, faith that these people wouldn't just return to the ways of "I'm right, you're wrong, see you in three years", but hey.

It's going to be an interesting topic.

---