Ok several years ago on FOX (or i think it was FOX) They had this alien documentary type thing (This really wasnt like a movie, it was all done on a home video camcorder.) about this familys house being invaded by aliens.

Some scenes i remember:

The son goes outside and looks up at the house, just to see an alien leg pull itself in the window. (Later the dad goes up with a shotgun to investigate)

The entire family has nose bleeds at the same time.

The son talks into the camera in the bathroom, then it goes off for a couple of hour with no explained reason.

The end of the movie, the son walks into his bedroom, only to have the door shut behind him, revealing an alien that slowly walks toward him.

Again, this really wasnt like a movie, it was all done on a home video camcorder. If you at least know the name of the show, please tell me!
