I'm going to say this only once, and after that I won't be dragged down into the bog that is your childish semantics. When I say ACK, I am referring directly to you and only you. There. Now we've reached a common ground. I do hope there won't be any more misunderstandings between us.

By the way, you still don't have a good reason for believing the Clintonites trashed the White House, do you, ACK? You can always just say you don't. It's not a crime.
