Well good to see people that share my views. First person for this game just doesn't really work. First of all , with aircraft it's a no go because it's harder than shit to see where theya re coming from. Especially if there is not Radar. If that , then all you cna rely on is the engine sounds. Which sucks.

There are also always snipers. If you get to know the maps you know where the main spots are but it's still hard to see where they are at especially on walls.

Also the weapons for renegade just look like shit anyways and I would rather play in thrid person to protect my retinas from exposure to crap.
