If the last post was made a while ago; such as someone posting today, when the last post was made a couple of weeks ago, the new post is considered "bumping" the topic. (This is generally considered to be bad forum protocol)

Or, if a number of topics are posted in all at once, and a particular topic goes on to the second page, someone will "bump" it so that is on the first page again. (This is generally considered to be acceptable if it is for a good reason)
