

---

Subject: It's finally worth looking at.

Posted by Beanyhead on Fri, 25 Mar 2005 02:49:09 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

You'll learn in time how to create a nice layout and such. I've been creating websites, toying with HTML since I was about 10. Even after that many years I still suck ass at anything graphical... lol. What I'm trying to get at is that give it time, keep working on it. You'll learn how to improve it.

Your site right now: The layout is defiantly improving. If possible find a different host for your images that isn't going to keep yelling at you about remote linking because half the time I just see a huge banner that says: "No Hotlinking" or something of that nature.

If you haven't tried some web editors already I would suggest Macromedia Dreamweaver MX 2004. I know many will say that it sucks, give it a try. You can get a 30 day trial, and you can probably find a way to "extend" it. I did however, buy an actual copy.

Don't let people get you discouraged, just keep working on it. If you enjoy doing it, that's the most important thing.

---