
Subject: Has Renguard been hacked?

Posted by Oblivion165 on Sat, 26 Mar 2005 17:01:26 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Scorpio9aOblivion165Scorpio9aOblivion165Whats wrong with lets say hex editing it to read from \Data2 instead of \Data and copying the standard contents of renegade in \data2.

I would say, try it, I don't give you much luck in even finding a "\Data".

Yeah thats why i said hex. You search for the hex-characters. And i think its very possible. Though i support rengaurd very much, so i wont be getting in it or telling what i know and what works. But never think your software is invulnerable, NEVER EVER think that. Always think to yourself "ok this is good, but i need to make it better"

Not saying that rengaurd isnt good, just in general. So far its a nice peice of software.

You aint really smart at all are you? Nobody is that stupid to place things like that in hex, or if you are refering to a hex-editor then you will still see a string as "\Data", sooooooo....?

Again you won't find any "\Data" string nor anything like it, not even close. You think we are really that stupid?

It was an untested guess. Who knows what you guys would do.
