Can someone please give a logical reason to kill her off that doesn't include the irrelevant statement of "I wouldn't want to live that way".

They say she's in deep depression because of her state, and (obviously) she can't do anything about it. She's already been in that state for a number of years, and keeping her alive would just prolong that depression.

Mind you, I have no clue how they figured out that she's depresses, but thats a different story.
