

---

Subject: Schiavo Situation

Posted by SuperFlyingEngi on Mon, 28 Mar 2005 14:38:57 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Understanding how a brain works and performing brain surgery are two entirely different things. To be fair, I never actually said my dad offered anything more than a personal opinion, it's just that PhDs seem to be a bit over-valued here.

Ok, here's what is wrong with a Nominee for the Nobel Peace Prize in Medicine:

A) There is no Nobel Peace Prize in Medicine. It's a Nobel Prize in Medicine.

B) There is no such thing as a nominee for it. The short list is a different thing entirely. What they fail to mention on network TV is that he was "nominated" for the prize by his state governor, who has no authority at all to recommend anyone for anything over at Oslo.

---