

---

Subject: Opera versus Firefox

Posted by Deactivated on Tue, 29 Mar 2005 20:50:10 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Renx

I personally chose Opera so I don't have to type in 7-15 URLs each time I open it. I browse a lot of sites, and Opera will save them all for me when I close it. The tabbing system is just much better in my opinion. Sure I've heard you can get plugins and extentions that will do the same thing for firefox, but why waste my time find, downloading, installing, and setting up those when it's all right here for me already?

I have used this method since Netscape 4:

Import bookmarks as html and set that html page as homepage.

---