i have over 250 custom maps, if you have played them each 1000 times then you are far more addicted to this game then me

I have said this before, I feel that server owners should have a larger input into the cp2 map selection, or more preciseley server owners that actually run the cp maps rotation. As they are the ones that are more likely to host the new maps, otherwise if no one hosts them it would be a rather redundant vote.

Unless BHS have managed to make my dreams come true and announce that they have found a way to make renegade servers download on demand... that would be the best news ever
