Quote:For some reason when i see them i just want to kick someones @ss, especially that really big teeth smiley people are always using on here. Does anyone else feel this way?

Quote:er what, you mean like plastering thier posts in 20 of these ?

Quote:Yes that one, I want to stab it.

Quote:you could acquire some writing skills. People have been conveying strong emotions in English for hundreds of years without the aid of cutesy symbols, fonts or even excessive punctuation.

Quote:It's like the internet has a permanent case of asperger's syndrome... everything that is said is taken at face value.

Quote:As for abbreviations and l337, they can be funny in small small doses, but beyond that it gets old fast.

Quote:The problem is I see smilies alot in places they dont need to be for example when ever you see someone say i did my first iaido/kendo lesson the forum will be jam packed with them, or especially in iaido forum when some one gets a new iaito and usually the "got my iaito today" thread will have a giant big teeth smiley on it already.

Quote:Besides which, without smilies the yanks wouldn't be able to understand what's being said - they haven't spoken English since 1776 . .

Quote:their are alot of american smiley abusers out there etc...
