..you're just as stupid as the people youre flaming. How can you blame someone for "screwing up a thread" when it's YOU who does the screwing up. just imagine for one second that everyone ignores the guy making the hateful post, and the thread goes on as normal. thread saved, and there was no need to take it off topic. there's no need to attack the post you don't like if it'll only boost what your victim was trying to achieve anyway....(a petty argument).... then try to say "but it was their fault". it is just completely contradictory and doesn't make any sense. So next time you think about saying "hey ack, STFU" you should probably take your own advice and might find the shutting up happens quicker than you thought.
