glyde51Opalkillal found out the hard way too. I tried updating my drivers and it fucked something up badly. I had to do a system restore. (I am an ATI X300 SE owner).

You're lucky, my parents were cheap when it came to hardware.

Just because it has an X in front of it doesn't mean it's good. X300 SE is still the very bottom of the line in ATI's latest generation.

And I really doubt that video card drivers have much to do with anyone's ping.
