Recently I came across a program that triggers people's heads in Renegade. It's not really an aimbot, because it doesn't always hit, but it's more like a trackbot, because it helps you aim.

I was under the impression that Renguard stops all cheats, but it seems I was wrong. This cheat is not located in your Renegade data folder, but on your desktop and you can turn it on and off at any given moment (say: when someone asks for a test).

If the people behind Renguard want to take a look at this program, they can pm me and I'll be happy to show them.

If you want to remove this topic because of the content, I can understand.
