...And no, I don't drink. The habit is counterproductive and the act has no logical foundation to it. "Because it feels good" is not a valid argument, just FYI.

Because it feels good is a retarded argument. American beers are like 0.005% alcohol. They taste like shit too. So imagine how much of those you'd have to drink to get drunk? And when you are drunk, you become useless.

There I some drinks that are good though. Has anyone ever tried Malibu? It's coconut Rum with 21% alcohol. It tastes very very nice. I drink it when I get the chance.
