It is illegal for under 18s to have sex already. The problem is that it is hard to enforce. So if a marriage was required to have sex, how would it be enforced? It would be hard to say you can have sex, but if a child results from it, it is your fault. Because if someone is found guilty of it what is the state going to do? Charge hefty fines or sentence the parents to prison?

If kids are growing up in a society where they learn to do stuff like this at 6, then someone, somewhere fucked up in bringing them up. We have to eliminate that problem.
