I'm 18, and I've never gotten drunk, or had more than a swallow of alcohol. Couple guys at school decided to be cool and try to get me drunk, gave me some "sprite" which contained vodka, I had some down before I realized what it was, then spat the rest out. Nastiest stuff I've ever had in my mouth...

Alcohol and drugs both do extremely weird things to a person. For example, I've got a buddy who used to be one of the smartest kids in the school, he aced most everything he did without studying in the slightest bit. However, he started drinking, got really addicted to it, and just last week he dropped out cause he was failing every single class. I also have a friend who was in a similar situation, she was extremely intelligent, and got into weed, she is hardly the same person anymore. Her marks are terrible, and she simply doesn't care.

Never in my life will I intentionally put alcohol into my system, smoke a cancer stick, or put some sort of drug into my body. They simply make no sense. If you cannot learn how to relax and enjoy yourself without the assistance of drugs, there is something seriously wrong with you.
