So I was playing as Nod this morning on Under and GDI was really sticking it to us with med tanks cause they had some good engie support. I snagged a stealth black hand to try and help resolve the issue. Upon ariving in the field I notice these three er so med tanks have three basic engines who as usual hudle around the vehic thats taking the most damage. To exploit this pattern I tossed some timed c4 on one of then engines (I was standing behind him) and hoped for the best. Shortly there after I was spotted and decided to help inflict as much damage as possible by dancing around shooting the meds which distracted their attention giving some others a chance at some shots as well. You guessed is 30 seconds later I was the happiest guy on Nod & within a few mins we were able to leave the base again (I believe we went on to win by points not positive tho) Screen shots below.

Hey will you hold this for me ?

Anyways it was great so I had to share. You can bet your ass I'll be using more enemy infi in the future to 'host' my c4 presents.
