
Subject: Political joke on vagrant falls flat
Posted by warranto on Sat, 14 May 2005 23:28:16 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Quote:Well, I don't see how insulting someone is an illegal act.

I don't care what he was offered.

"Insulting" someone, perhaps not. However moral turpitude and official misconduct are.

Oh, and spoony,

Quote:Where do you infer that he's suing?

While you are technically right that he is not suing, he is pursuing a criminal lawsuit and can receive damages from that.

Quote:"A police spokesman confirmed that Mr Oelschläger was pressing charges against Mr Gloystein for insulting him."
