
Subject: The pipeline that will change the world?

Posted by Jzinsky on Thu, 26 May 2005 12:26:57 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

SuperFlyingEngiThat's good, because if gas goes to $4 a gallon or OPEC starts pricing crude oil in Euros, the U.S. economy is dead in the water.

gbullMy stance: bout damn time, we are going to use oil anyways so don't kid yourselves, so why not get it at a more economical price. If sick of sending a full Saturday's worth of tips down the shitter to pay for gas.

Oh no, you might pay a whole $4 a gallon for your gas! Take your price for a gallon of gas, and that's about our price for a litre. If I was sending Friday's, Saturday's AND Sunday's tips into my tank I'd be happy.

Sarchasm aside, and purged of the gas price rant I have in the UK, they've been building this pipe for 10 years, going through all these countries, and we never heard anything about it until it opened? This is a joke, and I hope most of you saw it that way too...
