I think he should be spoken to personally if you have conflict rather than running to a higher authority that has no relation to your mod besides the actual game Renegade. In case any of you did not understand me correctly, here is an example: If someone stole an apple from you, you would not go to the store you bought it from and tell them to ban the person from the store. They would tell you it is something you must handle on your own. That is all. ^_^
