KanezorSounds to me like it is indeed installed. Try running the program at:
C:\Westwood\Renegade\game.exe

If RenGuard pops up, then you have it installed. If Renegade pops up, then alt-tab out and look at the bottom-right of your screen. If there's any double-arrows there, click on it to expand the area. Then look for a big "R" in Renegade's font. If you see one, then RenGuard is installed. Otherwise...

In any case, if RenGuard is installed, then it is likely that either your program launcher (for example, GameSpy Arcade or the All Seeing Eye) is being told to open the wrong program... or you're logging in under a different name on WOL than RenGuard thinks you're going to log in under.

Go try the steps in the upper two paragraphs and let me know of the results.

I have teh same problem, followed the steps you left, and still when i go to renegade, one way or another (through C: or directly) no renguard, i had to delete it because of stupid Tiberian Suns internet directory isnt teh same, anyway, if you can help us out (me and the other guy) it would be GREATLY appreciated.

ANYONE OUT THERE COULD YOU PLEASE HELP US?!?!
