Everything it's about is a bunch of shit anymore. It's nothing but processed meat put on the shelf for sale because they know that these stupid white kids will eat up the albums like fucking candy. Sure, there are some good artists still, but it's nothing but mass marketing on MTV and BET to these stupid teenagers to waste money on. Once a rapper has been on an MTV show, you know it's no longer worth listening to. MTV = death to music, and birth to cookie-cutter and manufactured bullshit for the simple purpose of putting a few benjamins in the artists' and producers' pockets.
