AircraftkillerI can bash the fuck out of Reborn and work on my project at the same time. If, in the highly unlikely chance, you ever looked at our website you'd notice everything we're getting done.

My point is what's the point? Why not spend that energy on getting your own product finished and then bash the fuck out of everything else safe in the smug knowledge that when some smart arse like me asks what you're doing that's so wonderful you can send them a cd with a "play our great game, it exists, unlike Reborn"

I looked at it, you got pics....
