Lijitsu: The concert was awesome. If I could remember the order of songs played I would list it, but I can only remember the first played and the last two. They started off with Saturday Night Special and then ended with Sweet Home Alabama, and then for their encore they played Free Bird. I knew all of the songs, but just not the lyrics to about half of them. >.>

They are definitely one of the greatest bands to ever play, and for me I would venture to say that they are the greatest American band to ever play.
