This has got to be one of the most mind-numbingly easy games on the internet.
Try it out and see for yourself.

I got more than one million points on my first try:

I didn't bother with it any longer after that; I just quit the thing.

What is it about nearly every single Japanese game that says they all have to be vomited all over with every color of the light spectrum, and why do they all have to have ridiculous "cute-looking" characters with eyes the size of volkswagens that would only be amusing to children and little people?
