I don't need a laptop, so I have no intention to purchase one. You do realize by saying what you just did, you personify the very core of those you say have "no life"? You sound exactly like a PC user from the late 80s and early 90s. "You can't afford a PC so I'm better than you!"

That's nice. You're still online too much to complain about the social lives of anyone else. Furthermore, the entire premise that you're worried about anyone else's "social life" is telling of your own. Probably because you have none and are taking your weak-minded aggression out on people that won't be able to reach out and slam their fist into your jaw.
