Something about a curse and the end of the world or something. Shes nuts, so i dont listen to her. You know what you should do? Go find a gaming store with an Xbox that you can play, befriend the people working there, tell them that you arent there if your girlfriend calls, and go play video games. Wait a fucking second. In another thread you said you're 13, and here you said your girlfriend went to Egypt for some weird reason. 13 year olds don't just decide to go to Egypt because of "a curse and the end of the world". Unless you're dating someone who's 20, this doesn't match up. Her aunt is with her. I think they just went on vacation, and that my girlfriend thinks they are there for the end of the world or whatever. No telling, really.
