Well my advice would be to host it in Gamespy mode. If you use gamespy then you will know how popular renbattle is. It's a 32 player server that hosts custom maps which are on their site (<http://www.renbattle.com>) as map packs. It saves everyone looking for the maps and people will play if they don't have to bother looking for the maps all over the web. If you make an good site with a list of the maps and a link for the map itself if not a map pack then it should work out. I would be happy to see a server hosting mods and custom maps in gamespy mode. 32 Player servers are normally a big hit on gamespy. Just an idea.

When i'm referring to gamespy I mean Gamespy Mode servers. A lot of people use programs such as "The All Seeing Eye" to connect to the servers as well as "Gae Spy Arcade".
