A few moments after that I felt the wings and realized it was headed for my...special area. I smacked the yellow jacket down and immediately took off my pant in a split second.

If that's not funny enough, a friend was on the computer with his back turned. After he turned around ghe didn't have any idea what I was doing.

Okay, it's not that funny; but hey, it's better than spam

Did he have a webcam going?
