Yeah they're over powered, but not against infantry. Clearscope isn't a cheat. So what if it's a slight advantage, bright skins are, sbh skins are, having a faster computer is and there are more things. Big deal, accept it.

it's an anti-material rifle, meant for piercing through light armor. It's not over powered against vehicles at all.

The fact that you can run and jump and dance in front of the other team while firing off 4 shots in a few seconds from a 50cal rifle is slightly over powered, don't you think?

"Still using 500?" It's not something you work your way up to. People who have a hard time landing headshots generally buy havocs more often. People who land them more easily buy 500s because it's the more sensible choice.

There's only one sniper rifle in the game. If I'm going to snipe, that's what I'll use.
