Open the videos in Windows Movie Maker, it will allow you to view the WMV files frame-by-frame.

You'll note that he does miss about four or five times...

But, when he kills, the reticle was either red on the same frame that the ammo amount changed or was red on the previous frame (indicating that the shot fired between frames, possibly?)

In my opinion, he either has excellent reflexes and is NOT cheating (well, except for the questionable clearscope skin), or is using a clickbot.

It's notable that he does seem to have a fair amount of lag though... but as you'll note in the FPS part of the movie, his ping is about 250-300. Being from France, that's understandable.

If you do not have Windows Movie Maker but would like to "obtain" it, please contact me privately.
