Oh, we can watch it if we want to. We just need to hook up to a satellite and "import" the program. The law merely states that it isn't to be aired on Canadian based stations.

And from what I've seen of FOX news prior to it being banned, it wasn't much of anything but fat people having contests to lose the most weight in various ways paid for by the station itself. It was clearly a political move, and since I have next to no respect for either polar side, it doesn't bother or affect me at all.

Besides, I feel much safer in a country were my neighbours don't have the "right" to sling guns around on a whim.
