

---

Subject: Re: Open Appeal to Adad from Blackhand Studios

Posted by Doitle on Sun, 11 Sep 2005 07:40:20 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Solution to the problem: Enter EA HQ and steal the master serial server.

Me and Crimson sneak into EA HQ disguised as repairmen. We both have handlebar mustaches. We tell them we are there to do some routine maintenance on the server and when we receive it, we high tail it out of there!

Then we escape from our conveniently placed rooftop Hot Air balloon while the EA CEO shakes his fist in fist shaking rage at our daring.

Upon reaching the BHS Derigible we enter and attempt to set up the server to get to work.

To our dismay however, when we plug it in and turn it on it blue screens while opening the Database!

Luckily Aircraftkiller was near to lend us advice on why it was crashing.

Indeed, someone had skinned this Oracle build...

With some working we managed to deskin it and texture it properly and get the database opened. Adad doesn't actually exist! We now see that this was all just a ploy so EA wouldn't have to give out any more serials and the game would finally die once and for all!

Fin

---