

---

Subject: Re: >.>

Posted by cheesesoda on Thu, 22 Sep 2005 16:16:40 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Oh my God... my rant about interent idiots is being proven more and more true as I read threads and posts.

thekingsthronenetIf their opposition defeats them in an argument, no matter how badly wounded they may be, idiots will strike back in a futile attempt to regain any ego, dignity, and territory lost in the argument. This is what's known as the "Adamian Principle". They will continue to dig themselves deeper and deeper into a hole without realizing it in an attempt to try outwit and/or outlast their opposition. 99% of the time, this results in failure and humiliation for the idiot. Though the argument may be over and the idiot defeated, they will still try and maintain dignity by claiming a false victory over their opposition. Often times, they will use some variation of "get a life" in order to explain their obvious defeat by claiming that their opposition has no life and spends all of his/her time on the computer.

---